

PALMER'S FUND
FOR CANDIDACY
FIXED AT $60,000

Representative Carlin, Campaign Manager, Tells Senators Names of Contributors and Amounts Given.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Contributions to the Attorney-General's campaign for the nomination of the Palmer's campaign for the nomination for president were placed today at $59,610, by former Representative C. C. Carlin, of Virginia, his campaign manager. The largest contribution was by James McClurg Guffey, of Pittsburgh, identified as an oil man in Pennsylvania, in Democratic politics. In Pennsylvania, the former federal Judge J. J. Palmer Covington, treasurer of the Palmer organization, gave $2,000. Frank R. Crocker, New York, gave $2,500. Mr. Carlin said.

Mr. Carlin concluded William C. Proctor, Jr., of New York, general chairman of Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood's campaign committee, was called. The former federal Judge J. J. Palmer Covington, treasurer of the Palmer campaign fund, had been called.

"Covington was formerly a federal Judge and resigned to go with the alien property custodian's office, when Mr. Palmer had that office, didn't he?" asked Chairman Kenyon.

"I don't know," was the reply.

And the size of the fee Mr. Covington received was caused public comment," Chairman Kenyon continued.

"I've only heard a little about that," he said.

Resuming the reading from his list Mr. Carlin said Frank L. Crocker, New York, gave $2,500; William C. Devitt, of Hartford, $1,000; William C. Devitt, of Hartford, $1,000; W. J. Barrow, New York, $1,000.

[illegible]

Georgia Contest Accidental:

In Georgia the contest against Al Palmer was "accidental," Mr. Carlin said, while in Pennsylvania he claimed that the "Republican Party" was the partisan tilting within the committee ranks to a temporary close with the "Democratic Party" in the history of the Democratic party no man has started out to get a presidential nomination by the prospect of spending $499,000 of his own money."

"I'll ask you about your own connection," Chairman Kenyon asked. "Are you your counsel?"

"No, sir," Mr. Carlin said.

"Are you your counsel for the Crucible Steel company?"

"I am not,"

"You are counsel for Mr. DuPuy, president of the Crucible Steel company," Chairman Kenyon demanded.

"And the Crucible Steel company defrauded the United States government out of $10,000,000, didn't it, in income taxes?" Chairman Kenyon asked.

"Something like that," Mr. Carlin said.

"It was the attorney-general's business to prosecute defrauders of the government," Chairman Kenyon asked.

Answers were in off by a disagreement within the committee. Mr. Carlin demanded opportunity to answer in his way.

"You know the Crucible company paid the government back $10,000,000," the chairman began again.

"It did not, it was $9,000,000," Mr.

Carlin answered, "I am not a director, I am president of the Crucible company."
"Well, you are attorney for him in this case," said the judge.
"I am not," Carlin said. "I'm representing Mr. DuPuy in the matter of how his own life's income has been handled. The other officers of the Crucible company were responsible for the other men."
Mr. Carlin said that the government was not to pay him under payment in the DuPuy private incomes.
"I represent them on the civil side," he said. "I am not representing them on the criminal side," Carlin said.
"There has been no action of any kind on the criminal side," said the government.
"I am not representing them on the sums like this and get away without any punishment as criminals?" Chairman Kenyon asked.
"I am not," Carlin replied. "I am representing them on the civil side," he said.
"You haven't read the statute," Mr. Carlin replied. "It specifically provides for settlement of the matter by the payment of money."

JURY STILL OUT IN PROHIBITION CASE

The jury in the case of Sam O. Scott and Albert Grazzina, charged with violating one of the federal prohibition act, was unable to reach a verdict in the United States district court Wednesday before adjournment for lunch.

It was alleged that Scott and Grazzina were arrested by special railway agents while transporting a quantity of whiskey from St. Louis to Memphis over the Illinois Central railroad in December, 1919. Attorney Abe Cohn was counsel for the defense.

TEMPERATURE
Twenty-four hours to noon, May 28.
Hour	Dry bulb	Wet bulb	Humidity
7 p.m. yesterday	78	70	67
8 a.m. today	78	68	70
Noon today	78	68	70

Maximum .. 75 ..
Minimum .. 49 ..
Sun sets today: 7:04 p.m.; rises tomorrow 4:49 a.m. Moon sets 1:40 a.m.
No precipitation.

Tennessee: Generally fair, little change in temperature.
Mississippi: Fair.
Arkansas: Partly cloudy.
Kentucky: Fair.
North and South Carolina and Georgia: Generally fair.
Florida: Showers except in northwest.
Alabama and Northwest Florida: Generally fair.
Louisiana: Generally fair, not much
change in temperature.
Oklahoma: Increasing cloudiness.
East Texas: Increasing cloudiness.
Texas: Fair.

W-4 13867. MISSING CHUGINSE.